Physician and Loveable Youth Were Alike Too Quick to Jump to Conclusions.

There's a certain physician in Los Angeles who admits the joke's on him. Incidentally, he will shortly lose his daughter. He tells it this way:

"I was in my study when the door was flung open and in came Jack. I know him well, and just a glance told me that he was far from being his usual self. Indeed, he looked positively ill.

"Without waiting for him to speak I commenced an examination. His heart was fluttering, his brow was fever heat, his pulse was racing.

"I sprang toward the phone, crying over my shoulder, 'You're a case for the hospital, young man.'

"Sure," he admitted; 'but you might have let me ask you first!'

"Ask me what?" I demanded in astonishment.

"I want to marry your daughter," he said, and then I realized that I had made the wrong diagnosis and that he had misconstrued my reference to the hospital."—Los Angeles Times.

HISTORIANS HAVE NOT SAID

Of Course There is Just a Possibility That Mrs. Patrick Henry Was Unsympathetic.

They were having one of the usual family quarrels over his having been at a meeting at the Commercial club while she was "at home all alone and so lonesome."

"You don't wish me to have any city or country spirit, either," he finally told her hotly. "I wonder where our country would be today if all the men who have lived in it had stayed at home and petted their wives all their off hours as you are wanting me to do for you?"

"Well, the women always suffer," she retorted. "Public men never have time to appreciate their wives and sympathize with—"

Then he interrupted her. "Oh, that cry for sympathy" (he was angry now). "I suppose that it's a nation-old cry. I imagine that while Patrick Henry was at the Virginia legislature making his famed speech, 'Give me liberty or give me death,' that Mrs. Patrick H. was at home wailing, 'Give me sympathy or give me death.'"—Indianapolis News.

Shakespeare Down to Date.

Justice Wayne, dramatic actress, finds an explanation of the question as to why Shakespearean plays seldom win financial reward in what she terms Shakespeare's inability to give his productions catchy titles. She suggests a repertoire of the bard's plays rechristened to meet popular demands for stimulating titles. She suggests "How Could You, Juliet?" as more appropriate than plain "Romeo and Juliet." She also would substitute "Call of the Flesh" for "The Merchant of Venice"; "Strangled in Bed" for "Othello"; "The Nutty Princess" for "Hamlet"; "Henry, Whom Do You Love?" for "Henry V.," "Big Dick" for "Richard the Third"; "The Knife" for "Julius Caesar" and "Moonlight and Honey-suckle" for "Midsummer Night's Dream."

The Cheerful Exterminator.

On moving into our honeymoon apartment we discovered that it was sadly in need of the services of an exterminator. With a bride's ignorance of apartment house life and the clubby ways of the cockroach, I regarded this as a personal disgrace, and took great care to keep it a profound secret from our friends.

One day, while exhibiting my shiny new kitchen equipment to a girl friend, I answered the back-door buzzer, and there was the exterminator, inquiring in a loud, cheerful tone, "Well, how are the cockroaches?"

The situation reduced my mind to such a pulp that I babbled, "They're well, thank you!"—Exchange.

The Bite That Failed.

As a rule the relations between Russians and Japanese soldiers in Siberia have been friendly enough. But at a town on the Transiberian railway, which had just been freed from the foul tyranny of bolshevist rule, a Japanese soldier hailed a big, staring mouluk into the presence of his commanding officer. "What has he been doing?" asked the colonel. "I gave him a cigarette," said the soldier, "and then he tried to bite me!" Kissing, even between members of the opposite sexes, is not a Japanese custom.

Enormous Demand for Furs.

Siberian furs are almost entirely shipped in the raw state. Very few furs are sent abroad, the exceptions being Tibetan lamb, muffs (plucked goat skin), and a few other varieties. The great demand for furs in all countries and the keen competition in the trade has sent up the prices of raw furs to figures unheard of a few years ago. Sables have enormously increased in value, due to the short supply and the closure of the Russian sable markets.

Port of Shanghai.

The port of Shanghai does perhaps 40 per cent of the entire foreign trade of China, and of the total imports of Shanghai for the year 1918, the United States furnished about 16 per cent. Chinese industries which are prosperous are cotton spinning, shipbuilding and flour milling. Railway projects command attention.

Fence For a Lifetime

Poor fence posts are thieves. They steal your money and time—time when you can least afford to give it. It costs the American farmer one hundred million dollars every year to replace decayed and broken fence posts. Most of this is needless waste.

Long Bell creosoted posts last a life time. You can be sure of satisfactory service with the minimum of upkeep. Their first cost is practically the only cost. The Long Bell method of creosoting should not be confused or compared with the open tank dipping or brush treatments, for these are only temporary forms of wood preservation. By the Long Bell hydraulic-pressure-vacuum process the entire sapwood is impregnated with creosote and the result is "The Post Everlasting."

We would like to show you these posts and other fencing material we have in stock.

MORE GOOD THINGS.

The following is a good way to use stale bread, and not at all common:

Toast Pudding.—Take five or six slices of bread, cut half an inch thick. Mix one beaten egg with one cupful of milk; add one-quarter teaspoonful of salt and soak the bread in this for 15 minutes. Brown in hot butter on a griddle and serve with—

Raisin Sauce.—Boil one-third of a cupful of raisins in one and one-half cupfuls of water for 15 minutes; add one-quarter of a cupful of brown sugar and boil for 15 minutes longer. Thicken with one teaspoonful of flour, mixed with one teaspoonful of butter; add salt and nutmeg to taste. Stir well and serve.

Cream Puffs-Popovers.—Take any popovers left from breakfast and make an opening in the side large enough to neatly fill the center. For six popovers take half a cupful of cream, sweetened with two tablespoonfuls of sugar and flavored with vanilla and lemon juice. Add a little salt and whip the cream. Stir in one tablespoonful of softened gelatine and set on ice to chill. When ready to serve, stir in half a cupful of any kind of fruit that has been well sugared and drained. Fill the popovers and serve at once.

Warm-Over Beans.—Put into a hot frying pan some of the pork cooked with the beans. When the fat is melted and hot pour in the beans; add a little hot water and set back where the beans will heat slowly. Fold over like an omelet and serve with savory tomato sauce or tomato catsup. Garnish with parsley.

Graham Cracker Sandwiches.—Mix together chopped nuts, raisins and lemon juice; heat through, cool and spread on graham crackers. Press lightly together and crisp in a moderate oven.

Egg Sauce.—Cook two eggs until hard in the shell. Shell and chop and add to the above white sauce, using one tablespoonful each of flour and butter. Add a bit of onion juice and chopped parsley.

Valuable Parasitic Fly.

A recent agricultural department bulletin states that a parasitic fly, comptosia civinnata, has been used with great success to destroy gypsy moth and brown-tail moth in New England. It will also aid in the control of other insect pests. A few years ago the white-marked tussock moth was a serious pest in New England, but has practically disappeared since comptosia became established. The cabbage worm, the celery worm and the fall webworm have all been reduced by the activities of the new parasite.

Quick Action.
